Even though winter has decided to hold on just a little longer, that doesn't mean you can't get a glimpse of blooming flowers and gentle sun. Spring takes on a variety of shapes, sizes and temperatures all over the world—and there are a number of new options opening over the next few months to help you enjoy the splendor of the season. To help get you in the mindset for the warmer months ahead, here are 12 travel experiences that are reason enough to jump on a plane in search of spring.

Beat the endless summer crowds and take in the blooming azaleas at one of Italy's most popular waterfront destinations. Although sporadic rain can dampen late April and May, temperatures here are perfect (highs in the mid-sixties and climbing in June) and rates at many hotels are much lower than they are in peak season. For example, a one-bed Classic Room at CastaDiva Resort goes for $447 USD in April compared to more than double that in July.
